HUNTERS FOR THE HUNGRY PROGRAM

Hunters for the Hungry is a program of the Tennessee Wildlife Federation. Its mission is to motivate the generosity of Tennessee's sportsmen and women by gathering harvested venison and giving it to hunger relief programs that feed hungry men, women and children across the state of Tennessee.

This is how the program works:

The hunters harvests a deer and donates it to the program by taking the deer to a participating processor. The processor takes the deer and grinds it all into hamburger and puts it into a separate freezer for the program. The local food bank comes and picks up the meat and distributes the meat to hungry families across the county. The processor gets paid a fee for his work from donations given to the program.

Here in Marshall County alone hunters donated 198 deer in 2012 to the program and generated over 6000 pounds of meat to hungry families. All entry fees will be directed to the processing fees of the harvested deer that are donated and processed for the Hungry in Marshall County.

All entry fees are tax deductible.

Thank you so much for your support!
